

Instruction for the NOI-3 Form: Emergency Stationary Internal Combustion Engines

This form serves as a supplement to the NOI-1 Form: General Information to provide the required information for emergency stationary internal combustion engines to construct, modify, and/or operate under the permit-by-rule.

All information pertinent of the emergency stationary internal combustion engines electing to be authorized to construct, modify, or operate under the permit-by-rule must be completed by the owner/operator or designee and be mailed along with the NOI-1 Form: General Information.

The items below give a brief explanation of the information being requested on the form. The following numbers refer to the specific box on the form:

1. Enter the business license name of corporation, company, individual owner, or governmental agency under which the NOI is submitted.
2. Check the "Yes" or "No" box to indicate if all stationary internal combustion engines are to be operated for emergency situations only and list the number of internal combustion engines located at the facility.
3. Enter the requested information for each emergency stationary internal combustion engine at the facility and attach a copy of the manufacturer's product literature including any emissions related documents. If some of the information is not known at the time of construction such as the serial no. or date installed, you may leave it blank. If applying for more than two (2) emergency stationary internal combustion engines, submit additional NOI-3 Forms as necessary.
4. Enter any necessary comments or other pertinent information. If none, enter "N/A."
5. The responsible official for the facility shall sign (original signature) and provide the date of the application.
