Mayor Burchett releases statement on Henley Bridge announcement

Knoxville, Tenn. — Knox County Mayor Tim Burchett released the following statement concerning TDOT's announcement that the Henley Street Bridge will open to traffic before Thanksgiving:

“Today’s announcement that the Henley Street Bridge will reopen to traffic soon is great news, as the past three years have been extremely difficult for businesses in South Knoxville. This is a good first step toward having normal traffic restored over the bridge. In the meantime, I hope even more Knox County residents will make a point to support South Knoxville businesses.”
