Background:

KNOXVILLE (July 26, 2016) – School starts in a couple weeks, and that means Knox County Mayor Tim Burchett's Back to School Bash is just around the corner. The annual event is an opportunity for students to get free school supplies and health screenings, have a "Shoney's KidCare ID" made, and enjoy activities, special programs, vendors and more. The event is free and open to the public.

Thousands attended last year's event, and Mayor Burchett is looking forward to another great event this year.

The fifth annual Back to School Bash is sponsored by the Knoxville Expo Center (<http://knoxvilleexpocenter.com>), Star 102.1 (<http://star1021fm.com>) and UnitedHealthcare Community Plan (<http://bit.ly/UHCCP>).
