FAQs

Q: Why is the back arrow on the browser sometimes available and sometime not?

A: If the back arrow is active it indicates a progression of reports. Selecting it will move backwards one report at a time. Using the red "x" to close at this point will close all the reports in the thread. If the back arrow is not active (can't click on it) there is only one report in the thread.

Q: Why can't I see John Q Public when I search for him on the Person Lookup report? I entered his entire name.

A: When Mr. Public was entered into the system he was entered as "John Public". His middle initial was not entered. The system looks for exact matches for the information that you have entered. In searches try using a few letters of the first name and a few letters of the last name, if you get too many results add additional information.

Q: Is there any benefit to closing with the red "x" versus navigating backwards with the back arrow to close the thread of reports?

A: Closing with the red "x" will close all the reports queried in that sequence. Navigating backwards closes one report at a time. When researching multiple individuals, it may be helpful to use the links provided on the reports to start additional queries each with their own sequence of reports.
